Summary

This week we continued to work on Moody's Manuals. We have finished up constructing the texts and choosing the optimal blob and now are working on finding the company names in the text. Once we find the company names in the text we want to grab the history and executives associated with that company.

Work planned for this week

- Improve text arrangement of blobs, CAP-74
- Extract information from optimal blob, CAP-77

Work completed this week

Improve text arrangement of blobs, CAP-74

- ✓ Group words by column, then sort all of the words in each column by comparing their y coordinate values. If the y coordinate values are close enough to each other then sort by their x coordinate values. This produced much better results when constructing the tables that were in the pages.

Extract information from optimal blob, CAP-77

- ⚠ Initial method to find company names is by finding strings that are in all caps. This finds the company names but also finds other strings as there are other strings that are in all caps. After company names have been found, we want to extract the history and executive names of the company. This is still a work in progress.

Plans for next week

- Extract information from optimal blob, CAP-77
